CALMAX UPDATE

Kevin Taylor
CALMAX Coordinator

To the Rescue...We are pleased to announce that we have a new CALMAX student assistant. Her name is Kim Sanders and she is a criminal justice major at Sacramento State University. Kim comes to us with some great experience from a local radio station working in the area of public relations. Welcome Kim.

Mail-Purge Update...In the March/April catalog we requested that you send back a card to insure that you keep getting the CALMAX catalog. If you didn't return the card, you soon may stop receiving CALMAX. If you're not sure if you're still on the mailing list, or want to get back on, give us a call at (916)255-2369. Until you get your new catalog, you can still keep up to date on all the new listings by using CALMAX's bulletin board service via modem by dialing (916) 448-0615.

ProMax Up and Running...The local material exchange program, ProMax, which is a part of "Waste Away," a business waste reduction program developed and operated by Ecology Action of Santa Cruz, is now in action. This materials exchange program should be of special interest to those who live and work in the Monterey Bay area. For more information on this program, call (800)-544-5925, extension 13.

Upcoming Workshop...Looking for new ideas on managing solid waste in your community? A one-day workshop on the latest in unit-based pricing techniques and technology, cost planning tools, and waste reduction programs will be held in San Francisco on June 4, 1996. For more information, contact the International City/County Management Association at (202) 962-3585 between 9AM and 5PM Eastern Standard Time, or the California Integrated Waste Management Board's Business Assistance Program at (916) 255-1124.

We're on the World Wide Web...The California Integrated Waste Management Board is on the World Wide Web. Numerous publications and fact sheets are available to assist businesses in reducing waste. See Waste Prevention World at our address: <http://www.ciwmb.ca.gov/>

We Hate to Nag But...We still need to hear about your successful exchanges made through CALMAX. Without knowing what's been exchanged, we cannot accurately determine the effectiveness of the CALMAX program. Continued funding for CALMAX is largely dependant on documenting successful exchanges, so please...write, call, or fax us the information on your successful exchanges.

Get the Word Out...We're always looking for ways to promote CALMAX. If you know of any people, companies or groups that would benefit from this program, we'd be happy to send them information or send you brochures or catalogs to distribute. We've found that many people hear about CALMAX from friends or business associates, so don't keep it to yourself...tell someone!

MATCH OF THE CATALOG

THIS ONE'S FOR THE BOOKS

By Ken Decio
CALMAX Coordinator

When the Colusa County Superintendent of Schools needed to get rid of over 40,000 law books from a defunct law school, no one knew where to turn. So, almost 50 tons of books were kept in storage units, costing the district $3000 per year. Various schools, law firms, and businesses throughout the County were contacted, but no one was interested in them.

Just when it appeared that the only remaining option was the dump, Phil Martell, the City Administrator for the City of Williams, became aware of the issue. He was determined to keep these books from ending up at the bottom of a landfill. Alan White, an employee of the California Integrated Waste Management Board, suggested that Phil investigate CALMAX as a possible solution to finding a home for the books.

Phil promptly placed a free ad in CALMAX and was amazed at the number of calls he received from businesses interested in the books. He was able to donate 4.5 tons of books to one company, but the volume of books was simply too large for this firm to handle alone. Then he received a call from Craig Hollyfield of All Sierra Recycling in Auburn, CA, and things progressed rapidly.

Craig, who was referred to CALMAX by his Weyerhaeuser Recycling sales representative, spotted Phil's "Legal Books-Free" ad in the catalog. Craig had just recently opened All Sierra Recycling and was initially a bit overwhelmed with the volume of law books. It required eight trips to Williams to recover 45 tons of books.

Most of the books were scrapped to recover white ledger paper, which easily covered the labor and transportation costs associated with collecting the books. However, to increase his profit margin, Craig negotiated a consignment agreement with Frank Biebl, Development Director for the Sacramento Surplus Book Room. Frank and his volunteer staff sorted through the 45 tons of books and recovered nearly 7,000 that were deemed marketable. The leather-bound books are being marketed to interior design firms and law offices for decorator purposes.

Some of the books are being sold for as much as $4.00 each, compared to recovering only 75 cent worth of white ledger paper contained in each book.

This is yet another example of how CALMAX can help communities and/or businesses network together to find viable alternatives to disposing of valuable resources. The Colusa County School District saved thousands of dollars on storage and disposal costs; All Sierra Recycling generated a profit from recovering the books; the Sacramento Surplus Book Room was able to market many of the books for decorator purposes; and almost 50 tons of material was diverted from the Colusa County's landfill! As Phil Martell exclaimed, "The CALMAX magazine was a godsend to us".

PURPOSE OF CALMAX

CALMAX is a free service provided by the California Integrated Waste Management Board. It is designed to help businesses find markets for materials they have traditionally discarded. The Board is responsible for developing strategies for reducing the amount of waste generated in California. The concept behind CALMAX is simple: material discarded by one business can be a resource to another business.

The goal of CALMAX is to conserve energy, resources, and landfill space by helping businesses and organizations find alternatives to the disposal of valuable materials or wastes. Furthermore, CALMAX aims to help California reach the goals posed by AB939. This law, passed in 1989, mandates that cities and counties must reduce the amount of waste going to landfills. AB939 states there must be a 25% reduction by 1995 and a 50% reduction by the year 2000.

CALMAX benefits California's businesses and communities in many ways:

- ★ New Markets for excess materials will be encouraged and facilitated.
- ★ Disposal Costs are reduced and there is even the possibility of selling material you once threw away.
- ★ Economic Development will be promoted by helping start-up businesses find free or inexpensive materials.
- ★ Environmental Enhancement will occur as we conserve resources and landfill space by finding uses for materials—rather than discarding them.
- ★ Your Community will benefit as schools, art groups, and nonprofit organizations discover the wealth of free or inexpensive materials available to them.
